

YOU MIGHT BE A GUN NUT.....

- If You've ever dabbed a little Hoppe's on your neck before going on a date...
- If you bought checkering tools, checkered all your gunstocks and are now starting on the bedposts...
- If you cannot really recall just how many guns you own...
- Surplus ammunition suppliers call you to see if there was anything you were looking for...
- If you bought a gun from a gun shop, only to realize you used to own it years ago...
- If you've ever shot out a 1911 barrel.....
- If you save brass and have a case tumbler, but don't reload...
- If you ever stripped the paint off of your car and then blued it
- If you've ever bought ammo for a caliber you didn't shoot, thinking that someday you might own a gun in that caliber...
- If your computer passwords are gun related...
- If your five-year-old can detail strip and fully reassemble an M-1 Garand.....
- If you take your guns out of the safe and handle them, just so you can wipe them down before going to bed...
- If your local gunsmith calls you for obsolete parts...
- If you home-school and use ballistic tables for math lessons...
- If your gun safe is bigger than your refrigerator...
- If the speedometer on your car is in both m.p.h. and fps...
- If you call Brownell's and they recognize your voice...
- If you own reloading dies for calibers that you do not shoot...
- If you understand Smith and Wesson's model numbers...
- If you ever bought two different brands of the same bullet just to see which one "shot better" ...
- If watching the Lion King gives you the itch for a .470 Nitro...
- If you cut out your best groups and carry them in your wallet like photos...
- If you've ever gone to a gun show three times in one month, and were excited every time...
- If you feel that a golf course is a willful and deliberate misuse of a perfectly good rifle range...
- If you ever accidentally seasoned a steak with FFFFg black powder...
- If your brass tumbler used to be a small cement mixers.
- If you identify the gun on the cover of Dillon's Blue Press before you notice the girl...
- If you make $30/hr at work and spent 35 min- on your knees at the range looking for that last piece of .40 brass...
- If you have guns in your safes that you can't for the life of you remember how you came by...
- If the FBI asks you to identify firearms they can't...
- If ammo manufacturers had to layoff workers when you went to Europe for a month's vacation...
- If you know the range of every tree in the neighborhood...
- if you can tell the caliber of any spent casing just by feel...
- If you plead with the gun shop to hold a rifle/shotgun until you have space for it...
- If you can't figure out why your non-shooting friends laugh when you say "Bushmaster"...
- If you didn't get that last one because you don't have any "non-shooting" friends...
- If your driver's license says "must wear night vision goggles."
- If your shoulder is callused...
- If manufactures ask you how their rifles hold up.

- If you get misty eyed every time you sell a gun..
- If you alternate Silvertips, Hydra-Shoks and Black Talons in your magazines because they look prettier that way.....
- If you guess windage and range every time you look at a road sign...
- If you went out to the range this weekend to shoot up ammo, just so you'd have some brass to reload...
- RCBS answers your phone calls, "What have YOU dreamed up this time?"
- if you can name the parts of your post-ban rifle you had to (or want to) swap out to make a legal semi auto AW
- if someone asks about the president and you think they're talking about Charlton Heston
- if you know the model numbers of your Glocks, how many and what size mags you have, and which are loaded, but have no idea when your anniversary is.
- if you've ever had to explain why you need armor piercing rounds to someone
- if you don't know that there is a difference between "the Internet" and "Glock Talk"
- if you have ever run out of gas in your car, but have never run out of ammo before
- if you know the serial numbers of your guns, but still get your kids' names mixed up.
- if you hold a firearms related record in Guinness book of world records.
- if you go to gun shows with a grocery buggy (painted camo of course)
- if you had to explain to someone what a "SHTF scenario" is
- if you had a gun rack on your bike when you were a kid
- if you know why 30-06 is pronounced "thirty alt six"
- if you buy all of your clothes at Wal-Mart but own some of the most expensive holsters known to man
- if your name is on California's AW ban
- if you walk up on a conversation about horses and as soon as you hear "colt", you are immediately interested.
- if your favorite saint is John Moses Browning.
- if your favorite paint color is "gun metal grey".
- if you break off on a dissertation on how badly congress screwed Bill Ruger.
- if you anticipate another shooting session while you are putting your guns away at the range.
- if you look at Shotgun News the way teenagers look at playboy
- if every street sign within 5 miles of your house looks like it came from Chechnya
- if you went to college, but owned more gun manuals than text books
- if the national guard armory has your phone number on "call block" because you keep making bids on their WWII artillery piece sitting out front
- if you carry a backup gun in case the backup for your backup fails.
- if you carry concealed at the beach
- if third world arms dealers consider you to be the largest gun runner in the world (but you keep all the stuff for yourself)
- if you were arrested/questioned about the sniper shootings
- if you've filled out more "yellow forms" than income tax forms
- if you have your own VIP parking spot at gun shows.
- if you hear someone say "it's about 9:45" and you think to yourself "good grief, the 9mm/.45 debate will never end!"
- if you sit through a violent movie and aren't bothered by gory violence, but flinch when someone drops a firearm (might scratch it)

- if you have been banned from a movie theater because you always stand up in the middle of the movie and tell everyone you can't fire 30 rounds from a revolver without reloading.
- if you ever took apart your Nintendo zapper and installed custom trigger, laser sight, scope, etc. for Duck Hunt
- if you have more firearms than friends
- if you have insurance covering your guns, but not you
- if Hillary Clinton makes your skin crawl.
- if you slide your paddle holster on to check your mail.
- if you slide your paddle holster on to take out the garbage.
- if you find yourself rapidly disassembling/re-assembling your handgun....in the dark.....on the toilet.
- if you drive to work with a $1500 Kimber in a $500 pick-up.
- if your guns are named names usually reserved for people
- if you designed your own caliber and built a firearm to fire it
- if you grew up with loaded guns all around you, but it never crossed your mind to shoot up your school.
- if you've read the Constitution
- if you know the second amendment by heart
- if you know the second amendment translated into more than 3 languages
- if you used to have a hill as a backstop, but now it has become a 30 foot high mound of pure lead.
- if you make your own reloading tools
- if you make your own powder
- if you don't label your reloading powder, because you can hear the difference when shaking the can
- if you have ever read an article in the crime section of the newspaper and read "the suspect had over 200 rounds of ammunition", then assumed it was a misprint. who in his right mind would get down to only 200 rounds???
- if your CCW is a shotgun
- if your CCW is a .50
- if your CCW is a LAW
- if you find yourself doing trigger and muzzle control on the bottle of your wife's glass cleaner
- if your girlfriend/wife is jealous of the time you spend with your guns
- if your wish list on Midway USA totals up to the price of a new car
- if that new car would be a Bentley
- if your already thinking about your next gun while your filling out the paperwork on the one you're buying.
- if the guys at the local gun shop send you a Christmas card
- if you own a guns you haven't shot yet
- if you have a room in your house dedicated to guns
- if when someone says "but what if you don't have a gun with you?" and after 15 minutes you still can comprehend how that would be possible.
- if the sound of full auto gun fire makes you feel all warm and fuzzy
- if you shook the presents under your tree, and one fired a round out of it.
- if you've spent more money at Midway USA, Brownell's, and Cabela's than the companies are worth.
- if your will specifies your favorite firearm(s) to be buried with you.
- if the Glock talk logo is burned into your computer monitor.
- if you have had a friend who thought knives were soooo cool and dangerous, then you showed him

your AK-47 collection

- if you wonder why you must renew your CCW license every year, but your marriage license won't expire.
- if someone asks how many guns you have, and the answer begins with "about" (i.e. "about 50 or so").
- if you took an ink blot test, and your answers were things like "an AR-15 sear", "bolt release from Ruger 10-22", "firing pin from M1911", etc.
- if you know you carry 45 caliber 230 grain full metal jacketed hydra-shock hollow points from Federal, but don't know the color of your wife's eyes.
- if you have ever shot a hole in something by accident
- if that something was your TV during a Bush/Gore debate
- if you buy Hoppe's solvent in 50 gallon drums because your howitzer "likes" it
- if the gun show owners let you in free.
- if you named a dog after a gun.
- if you name your kids after your guns.
- if you time yourself each time you fill out one of those yellow forms, and you're down to a minute flat.
- if NICS put your favorite gun dealer on call block.
- if you're only dating/marrying a girl so you can shoot her gun collection.
- if the wallpaper on your desktop is firearm related
- if the wallpaper in a room of your house is firearm related
- if you have no wallpaper or house, but live in a dug-out underground bunker to keep your guns safe
- if CNN does a report on gun control and shows a table of guns from a gun show, and one of them has your name engraved on the side.
- if you carry pictures of your guns in your wallet
- if you ever heard gun shots outside your house late at night but fell into a state of sheer panic because you couldn't decide which gun to grab.
- if your favorites in the computer only have one folder, "guns."